The United States of America have not forgotten that the first page of the history of their independence was werit in with a bit of French blood—Gen. John.

With this testimonial to they valoue independence in caring for the French wounded on the battlefields of the great war as an inspiration, members of the Field Service of the American Ambulance have told some of their experiences in a volume entitled "Friends of France. Just published by Houghton Miffling Company. The book is dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon in appreciation of their efforts here in behalf of the American Ambulance. # A Great Piano for Half a Century

The Kranich & Bach

TN THE DAYS of the Civil War the Kranich & Bach was a great Piano. It is still great now that more than fifty years have elapsed. The same ideal which inspired the making of the first Kranich & Bach is a daily inspiration in the Kranich & Bach factory; the employees who uphold that ideal are in many casethose who made the early Kranich & Bach instruments; the executive management stands for the same unswerving devotion to high ideals as in the beginning.

Not six other American Pianos have such a record of achievement—such a fixity of purpose. And it was because the Loeser Store (itself long established and animated by a definite purpose) could appreciate the aims and ideals of Kranich & Bach that this Piano finds chief representation among the six makes are to be seen exclusively at Loeser's hereabout. Among them are instrument for so little as $198, still more at medium prices and, last, the magnificen Kranich & Bach Player Grand Piano at $1,450. All these makes were chosen on a basis of quality; no other motive inspired their selection-no interest in the success of the makers, no prejudices, no ulterior motive of any kind. All available makes were considered. Those which seemed to offer the greatest actual value and the greatest assurance of satisfaction for YOU were chosen.

We do not know of another Piano Store in New York where equally disinterested principles have governed the selection of the Piano for which the storis sponsor. We do not know of values to equal those offered at Loeser's to-day, nor do we know of a single store in the United States which offers Pianos of
